

The MFR in France and in the world

The first MFR was born in the south west of France in 1937. The first interested parents, supported by the parish priest who was a militant of the rural cause, were convinced that to be a successful farmer, it was necessary to acquire more knowledge theoretical and technical. In order to allow their children to get further education, they decided to buy a house naturally called family house and recruited a technician in order to do the young people's training... Nowadays in France, the organization consists of about 460 associations together.

A MFR always starts with the determination of families who decide to change their conditions of life, to increase their autonomy and give real answers to the questions about their children's future and the environment they live in. They are set up on shared principles (individual and collective responsibility, involvement of the individuals and the communities, implementation of alternate training system and actions of development).

Responsible families

Worldwidly a MFR is an association of families. The structure implies a certain number of rules. The General meeting with all the actors of the MFR (parents, training period managers...) is the most important moment in the running of the association. During this yearly meeting they analyse the results of the actions started, they decide the news actions to set up. This meeting is a great opportunity to communicate with all members (parents, youngsters, "moniteurs"- and the people responsible for the association). It's a great opportunity to create strong links which make the MFR successful. Families vote for their members in the board of directors. The boards of directors meets regularly in order to ensure a smooth running of the association. Their main preoccupations are about employing and supporting the "moniteurs", management, looking for solutions regarding education training and the development of the area.

Sandwich training courses

The instigators of the MFR thought about a rythm that would allow to share training between two periods of time : a period of work on a farm (in many cases it is the parents'farm) and a period of study at the MFR. They had invented an educational method which is well-known nowadays : the alternate training system or sandwich training course. The organization is totally successful thanks to a good articulation between the two periods of time.

A global approach of the education

The MFR'S ambition is not only to teach abilities and ways of being, they also aim at teaching what citizenship is and a sense of togetherness.

Learning the group life

In the Maison Familiale Rurale young people and adults find a pleasant environment especially adapted to develop their abilities. The school ensures the pupils full boarding, and organises lots of collective activities so that everyone works with one another. It also tries to open minds to cultural life thanks to activities led during the day or the evening, and prepares youngsters and adults to a successful integration into society in which they can find a place and take responsibilities.

A Maison Familiale Rurale : a close-knit and personalized organization

A Maison Familiale Rurale works in the area where it has been set up. The rooms are set up in such a way that everyone can feel comfortable and have relationships in a family atmosphere though there are some demanding rules regarding education in general. There is a limited number of pupils or adults at the Maison Familiale Rurale each week. So the team of "moniteurs" is limited as well.

"Moniteurs", technicians, and youth guide

The "Monitrics" or "Moniteurs" stay all day long at the Maison Familiale Rurale. They have various functions : they favour relationships in the group, they teach, they take an active part in the education aim while supporting each youngster's project. They are qualified to implement the alternate training system and they know very well the Maison Familiale Rurale's environment, youngsters, their families and the training managers. They get involved in the development of the area where the Maison Familiale Rurale has started its activities.

Families which take an active part in their children's education

The Maison Familiale Rurale is a place where everyone can communicate with each other, which creates a sense of solidarity among families.

A few figures

A survey carried out in France shows that besides the 60 000 families taking an active part in some 450 associations, more than another 100 000 people join in young people's training and rural development .

- 10 000 members from the Board of Directors lead the Associations and manage the "Maisons Familiales"
- 5 000 "moniteurs" and "monitrices"
- 12 000 permanent training managers
- 30 000 occasionnal training managers
- 11 000 people in charge of agricultural, craft or serviceenterprises lead study tours
- 22 000 professional representatives take part in the assessments organized by the "Maisons Familiales"
- 15 000 specialist speakers, technicians, bring informationand ideas resulting from their experience

A structured organization

From the beginning the Maisons Familiales Rurales in France understood they needed to organize themselves in order to bring together the initiatives sprouting up all over the country and to favour communication among them As a result associations have grouped and formed a "Union nationale", based in Paris ; then progressively federations were created in order to give a better support to the network and to match the French administration's organization.

At the same time, the Maisons Familiales Rurales also set up an Education Centre called Centre National Pédagogique aimed at training new moniteurs, doing continuing training for the experienced ones and providing research on the alternate training system.

Creation of the Maisons Familiales Rurales' International Association (AIMFR) was decided on by the European, African and Latin America representatives gathererd in Dakar in 1975. This association is the world Federation of all the Maisons Familiales Rurales' organizations. Its objectives are to represent the Maisons Familiales Rurales in the international bodies (such a Food and Agriculture Organization, European Union...) to maintain liaison and exchanges of experiences between the MFR, and to promote the MFR's principles and methods in the world.
